Activities:

IUT2, University Institute of Technology, an institute with a strong identity

The strong identity of the IUT2 is due to its specific culture and the strong feeling of belonging towards the students, the professors and the supervisory staff. The student life and the student unions are very developed, notably in the cultural and sports fields.

University lecturers and researchers, professors and business professionals act together to propose to the students an educational method integrating the latest technological innovations and a diversified, personalized and professional teaching program.

IUT2 is one of the 12 faculties of the Pierre Mendès France University. Thus, the institute has missions of training, teaching, research, technological transfer, continuous education and diffusion of technical and scientific culture.

Studies:

A wide range of teaching programs

As regards the new higher learning European organisation (LMD), IUT2 managed to broaden its horizons in terms of teaching programs and is currently proposing 14 professional Licences (equivalent to a Bachelor degree). This degree whose purpose is professional integration, allows the students to quickly acquire a qualification that meets their needs, expectations and their identified occupations, in collaboration with the adequate professional branches.

The different teaching programs of IUT2 are organized so as to enable the student to personalize his/her course of study and facilitate the construction of his/her professional project: in an initial training program with 30 hours of classes per week and a mandatory internship in a chosen professional sector; within a continuous education program, for those who return to study after a potential validation of skills; a program in a sandwich-courses device in which the student alternates school days at the IUT and work days in a company; a distance-learning program that complements another activity or a special study year during which the student prepares his/her degree in one single year.
